

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to the generation of animals by the transfer of somatic cells which have been denatured preferably by heating, into enucleated metaphase II oocytes. This invention may be useful for the cloning of mammals including but not being limited to, genetically selected and/or transgenic animals.

5

10

09080557-120401